For the past few years I have offered surplus waterlilies in nice blooming sized clumps, in assorted colors, at a reduced price, to beautify American Ponds Sloughs, Lakes and lakefront property.

About the only requirements in being successful with them is

No 1 that the waterline don't vary over 2 feet during year, a constant level is best, No 2 that there be some muck at the bottom of the water to insert them in, 3 That there be no rough wave action if too rough it will keep the leaves whipped off which will eventually sap the plants.

I have perhaps 20 or 30 thousand, in a reservoir that the water is now out of, they are relying only in their depth in the muck to save them from freezing, Am cleaning out reservoir of all muck and lilies in the spring.

am offering these unlabeled, at $25.00 per 100 $160.00 per 1000 and giving 5 Egyptian Lotus tubers with each 1000.

These Lily roots planted ~~May~~ In Apr Or May will furnish an abundance of Gorgeous lilies from May 15 to Frost.

The Lilies that go into this collection are marked on list They are not labeled at this price, but some of the leading lily concerns sell these same varieties retail at $2.00 each or more.

Egyptian Lotus Tubers Blooming size $1.00 Each $75.00 per 100

American Lotus same price

For the past few years I have obtained several varieties in which blooming started a month or so earlier than the normal time, and the flowers were of a deeper color, and the leaves were more about the only differences in their appearance from the normal.

So I have been thinking of you, and I have been thinking of the level of the water, and I have been thinking of the water level in the garden, and I have been thinking of the water level in the garden.

It is very interesting to see the leaves of the water level in the garden.

I have been thinking of you, and I have been thinking of the water level in the garden.
